ACKNOWLEDGMENTS.

The writer is indebted for cooperation, assistance and encouragement from Professor H.A. Reyburn, Head of the Department of Psychology, University of Cape Town.

I am in debt for help to Miss M. Raath who kindly lent reference books and made helpful suggestions for the setting out of thesis.

The 40 subjects in this project were co-operative and agreed willingly to submit to the test. I would like to extend my thanks to them.

I should also like to thank Mrs. Jean Crichton for her untiring work in typing this thesis.

I should also like to thank Dr. A.H. Smith for his invaluable help in procuring many of the subjects for the thesis.
CHAPTER I.

AIM "TO DISCOVER THE COMPARATIVE PERSONALITIES OF ARTISTS AND DOCTORS BY MEANS OF THE RORSCHACH TEST"

There is a supposition made by many people that a considerable number of Doctors showed artistic potentialities. Discussing this point with Artists they maintained that it was incorrect and that the Doctors were more likely then not merely good draughtsmen without having any truly artistic talent. As one Artist bluntly put it "There is no flame soul or meaning in their attempts at Art". The above and also the fact that it might prove an interesting field to investigate constitutes the reason for the choice.

CHAPTER II.

NUMBER OF SUBJECTS. The number of subjects chosen for the test were 20 Doctors and 20 Artists.

METHOD OF CHOICE. In both groups males were chosen, Firstly Doctors were chosen who had been in practice for several years so that they could be typed as typical Doctors. No particular branch of medicine was adhered to and the group contains Gynaecologists, Surgeons, Psychiatrists and General Practitioners.

The selection of artists was rather limited, artists who had given exhibitions were chosen, and to supplement these others who were generally considered as being artistically inclined. This group included Surrealists, Futurists, Landscape Painters, Portrait Painters, Commercial Artists, a musician, and others.
METHOD OF GIVING THE TEST.

In giving the test the instructions given by Professor Reyburn and Basic Processes by Beck were adhered to as strictly as possible. There were some necessary deviations in some cases where the seating accommodation in studios was not quite satisfactory. Giving the test in a set office would not have been practicable as the subjects, especially the Doctors, expected the Experimenter to go to them. This procedure had the effect of lessening any nervousness or strangeness they may have felt by being removed from their own environment and helped to create a more informal atmosphere. The responses were taken down verbatim and a stop watch was used.

ATTITUDE OF 2 GROUPS TOWARDS THE TEST AND GENERAL BEHAVIOUR DURING THE TEST.

Both groups showed considerable interest in the test. The artists tended to be more inquisitive, asking "What is it all about", "Are you psychoanalysing me?", "Am I giving the same sort of answers as other people?", "What have other artists given?"

In addition the artists were inclined to stray from the work at hand and go off into diatribes about various forms of art, their knowledge of psychology and the work of artists other than themselves - mainly detrimental. All the artists demonstrated their responses very thoroughly by waving their arms, pursing their lips and various facial expressions and emotional exhibitions.

The Doctors on the other hand give the responses simply and clearly, but seemed to deliberate for a long time before giving them.

They seemed unwilling to elaborate on their responses and showed little change of expression when giving them. In other words they were far more matter of fact.

METHOD OF SCORING.

The method of scoring was that adopted by Professor Reyburn and basic processes by Beck.

The movement scores were divided into

3. :

M  human movement.

FM  animal movement

m inanimate movement

as many writers have done.

Little f was used for fabulised responses.

A slight addition was made in the popular scorings. Chameleons were scored as popular as this occurred very frequently and was felt to be a typical South African response.
CHAPTER IV

PREVIOUS FINDINGS IN REGARD TO THIS SUBJECT.

Not much work has been done on Medical Practitioners but Rorschach gives the following information about Artists.

According to Rorschach references to red decrease with increasing age, this may be considered as the expression of increase in emotional control, (this applies to Doctors from results of thesis).

The use of blue does not increase in frequency. It may be that a preference for blue is a sign of definite emotional timidity.

Experience type and talent.

The first thing which drew attention to the relation between experience type and talent was the observation that all painters gave relatively many M responses, and that particularly talented subjects, talented in several fields always fell in the area of the experience type scheme with the ambiequal showing little or no coartative trend. Different sorts of studies including experiments with artists as subjects and study of spontaneous and directed productions of all subjects have led to certain conclusions. These require further study and differentiation however.

There is a great difference between the introversive painter and the extratensive one. The extratensive is predominantly reproductive in his work while the introversive is creative in his.

The differentiation of talents according to their introversive and extratensive features is in itself a large and formidable task. Rorschach demonstrates this differentiation using artists as the example.

The timeless classic art.
In actuality each artist represents an individuality of his own.

Creative mood comes with dilated experience types. Inspiration is a part of rapid and forceful dilation of the usual experience type. Depression prevents inspiration because it coartates the experience type.

An artist in his later years usually begins to imitate his own work. The experience type has become more extratensive, there is less capacity for introversion so that the talent approaches the less productive but more technical sort.

Rorschach claims that when a talent shows marked development, this is an indication that the introversive features have become stronger as determinants. As a rule, there is an increase in capacity for introversion about the thirtieth year, though this may not hold for all races. The "late maturation" of many Swiss artists has its foundation in a late shift in the experience type.

The development of Ferdinand Hodler is of great interest in this respect. He showed tremendous expansions of the experience type in both the "into" and "extra" directions in his career. At first he reveled in colour, portrayed joyful folk-scenes full of action. Eventually he used almost no colour in his paintings, but depicted powerful movements, impressive in the control they indicate. In him there was a gradual growth of kinaesthetic features, and a shutting out of colour. Finally, he employs the colour blue almost exclusively; blue is the favourite colour of all who control their passions. The predominance of introversive factors is unmistakable in the larger paintings. The content of the latter also show the trend toward introversion which culminates in the picture "A Glance into Eternity". It is remarkable that he could produce the portrait of General Wille in the same period. The contrast between these two pictures reveal a tremendous control over introversive and extratensive tendencies in his constitution as well as over his techniques of expression.

The reactions of various groups to colour is noteworthy. Those who inhibit and suppress their emotions, especially coartated types, tend to avoid colour, to be shy of it. This is probably most apparent in English art. Markedly introverted people prefer art in black and white. With increase in extratensive features in the experience type there is an increase in the enjoyment of colour; an example is found in the Southern Europeans. Ambiequal types of all peoples are the synthesists.

According to Rorschach 20 - 30% animal answers are observed in protocols of imaginative subjects, artists, persons who turn away from reality to a greater or lesser degree. In the normal group the practical sort of person stands in contrast to the artist by almost always having a high percentage of animal response.

Only subjects with great freedom and wealth of associations produce more than 7 W's.

Artists and subjects who enjoy reverie attain the highest number of W responses.

The more stable the emotions the better the form visualization; the more labile the emotions, the more inexact the form visualization. This parallel relationship breaks down only in the case of a single group of normals, the neurotics and artists. This group does combine good form visualization with unstable emotional tone.

Artists, imaginative subjects and abstract thinkers produce the most M's. M's depend in some way upon the freedom of association which prevents stereotyped associative patterns.

It is found that subjects characterized by stable emotions give few or no colour answers. Subjects characterized by affective lability give many colour answers. In this group are found the subjects in relaxed moods, neurotic individuals, artists, morons and imbeciles, scattered schizophrenics, epileptics, organic cases and the maniacs.

Rorschach claims that the average tradesman does not produce as many good original answers as does the educated subject or, particularly, the creative artist. The original answers alone are sufficient to indicate the extent of the subject's education. The number of good original answers as well as their content enters into consideration. The number of original responses reveals certain peculiarities of the associative life of the individual, while the content of the answers frequently reveals whether this peculiarity is a result of his specialized training or is actually the result of broad education. If the 0 responses all fall in the same group, if they all originate in the same associative "set", the individuality is determined primarily by the subject's technical education. Examples may be found in the medical man who interprets many anatomical objects in the test, and in the botanist, who because of his special knowledge unknown to laymen, produces a large number of 0+ responses. If the original answers themselves are highly variable, however, they demonstrate strikingly the individual's broad, general education.

The rare answers in which movement and colour appear to influence the answer simultaneously may be called MC's. Card X interpreted as a whole as "Expressionistic picture of a country fair, and card IX as "Witches' Sabbath", are examples of the type. Such answers are given by very talented subjects, especially artists.

Rorschach lays great stress on the changeover of artists from creative to reproductive work, for example, a novelist who writes his first two books on the basis of poetic introversion and then builds a house with the money received from royalties, employing his creative powers in its construction and wasting emotion still more on critics, may so impoverish his imaginative apparatus that he can afterward write only literature for the drawing-room. He produces stories which are extratensive, adaptable to everyone. Thenceforth, he confabulates rather than imagines.

Another example based on observations made with the test concerns a young man who chose painting as a profession because his father was an artist; he wished to be in the same profession because of admiration of his father. Both the father and son "love the profession passionately"; it is libidinized in them. The father, having a strongly introversive experience type, is original and creative. The son, however, is predominantly extratensive and could develop a good technique in his art, but he lacks originality entirely. He is, primarily, a good copyist. His experience type does not extend far enough into the introversive sphere to produce that constellation of features which is necessary for creative work. No matter how much libido he devotes to his profession it cannot be sufficient.

As there is no information regarding Doctors it may be permissible to regard them from the findings of the thesis as practical, unimaginative and stereotyped. The following has been written about stereotyped subjects. This group gives over 50% animal responses.

Disciplined thinking can master and control both introversive and extratensive features, and when its control is exercised to the maximum the apparatus upon which experience depends becomes atrophied and damaged, the result being stereotypy and inability to experience fully. Stereotypy shows a very high percentage of good form visualization responses.

Only pedants show 100% F* the maximum.

Practical subjects produce few M's, a larger number of M's are interpreted by more creative subjects. These findings would tend to indicate that M responses are characteristic of subjects who function more in the intellectual sphere, whose interests gravitate more toward their intra-psychic living rather than to the world outside themselves.

Mons states that the vista response is frequently associated with literary gifts or tastes including poetry. It is also commonly given by artists where the eye for tone is part of the professional equipment. Such a construction he says requires a keener eye, a finer observation of reality, and a more accurate reasoning power than the C- responses.

The vista response indicates the finer intellectual faculties and the talent to adapt these to human society.

The pure C response in Artists may be a reflection of professional interest, but in the absence of such a motive one must suspect a form of sensuality that escapes the control of reason and self criticism.

The Pure C response expresses a tendency to passion, temper, and uncontrolled emotional outbursts, but one must beware of attaching the same significance to the response when it is given by artists or other persons whose professional life is spent in handling colours. Such people are undoubtedly more prone to give pure colour responses. Analysis of the personalities concerned shows however, that it is just among artists that the emotional life is highly developed and very sensitive, so that it is a question whether they respond with C because of their vocation, or whether they are artists because their emotion needed an outlet or sublimation.

The anatomy response is natural and almost inevitable in the medical profession and is frequently found in the records of people who have acquired some degree of anatomical knowledge for their occupation, like the artist.
Mons also states that artists may draw attention to their skill in giving certain shades a special name, but this should be classified as a comment on colour since it seldom if ever, replaces the real colour responses.

Sex responses Mons claims are usually only given by those who feel no embarrassment in the presence of the person giving the test. They are far more frequently given by men than by women, and by adults than children. They are of small significance in medical personnel, unless excessive in numbers or otherwise outstanding. In the neuroses and the psychoses they occur as part of the mental content, and often point to repressed instincts whose presence the patient may emphatically deny. Their homosexual character may point to auto-erotic trends or homosexual interests, while a few heterosexual responses in individuals feeling at ease during the test and free from repression must be regarded as normal.

   7) W:FY:Lit

8. "That can be centre with brooch (d 27) on feminine human body"
   8) d:F+:orn

9. "If you look here could be like a map -relief card with islands"(D 2)
   "Everything is symmetric but not that the tones are not symmetric. Artistic symmetry very poor. Harmony has crumbled. Symmetry is the shelter of the crumble harmony man has not much artistry. Not a masterpiece" Criticism.
   9) D:FY:Ge

10. "Looks like some sections of the brain in medical laboratories." "Will that do?"
    W0) W:F+:at

Card II. Reaction Time:- 4 seconds.

1. "First impression can be two clowns with the hands like that"
   1) W:M:HP

2. "Or two bears with something red on the head"
   2) W:F+:A:P

3. "Can see effect of light here, lantern" (D 3)
   3) D:CF:fire

4. "There's a little temple tower again is symmetric "(D 4) "It's nice to see red colour after looking fifteen minutes at first card. Pleasant impression of change. The impression of drawing is very much heavier than first card"
   4) D:F+:Arch

5. "looks little like some drawings you find in teachings Anatomy or Pathology or something like that"(D 5)
   "The thing that gives more sense is held like this . Turned round no give any suggestion.
   5) D:F+:At
Card II (continued)

6.
"Like Klu Klux Clan hats or 17th century" (D2) "Much more beautiful than to-day."

7.
"That looks a little like a foot of a bear. In English you have not word - something to kripas (clutch)" (D5)

No artistic emotion, change of colour amusing.

Card III. Reaction Time:- 5 seconds.

1.
"First of all looks like two little negroes taking something from basket?"

2.
"Very nice shoes (D 10) like women. Looks little more realistic than the others. Impression is you have drawing plus three things completely different (red things) something that is not in the body of this drawing".

3.
"This thing looks like shoulder blades"

4.
"Red colour gives idea of butcher gives to cats" (D2 + D3).

"Have impression of basket, one that is not very heavy because of position of bodies. The gravity is abnormal" (See scoring of 1)

"The waist of negroes is very thin white gives that impression. Very tall neck gives sensation very like evening dress. Like tails, high class waiters."

"Mussolini has, I haven't sticking out chin" (D6) "This also reminds me of face of Spanish Philosopher. Of course everything is very much my imagination."

"Impression they are two natives to find something in red - give no unity different from black colour suggests it. Looking vertically seems to give the best impressions".

6.
"Two natives with beards, very thin neck. That could be the arms. That could be legs in extraordinary position. In my country we have dancers that put their legs like that" (D1 + D4)

7.
"That can be a pink butterfly (D3) pretty"

8.
"That looks like a cook (D2) who is losing blood (The red made me think of that)"
Card IV. Reaction Time: 10 seconds.

1. "Can be monster with enormous face and feet (W - D1). The arms are very thin" 1) D:F+:A:P

2. "That you have something coming out from middle of body, a cow, very special cow" (D1)

3. "Consults dictionary: "Top part looks like frog" (D3)

4. "Many hairs like orang-outang (W), enormous body not in proportion (hairy-sense of feel)"

5. "That looks like somebody who is at least 5 or 6 metres"

6. "Like that is another fledermaus. Very regular the symmetry. Perhaps this side is a little darker than this one" (W)

"Not anything artistic, no artistic significance. No pleasant or unpleasant. Less pleasant than the things of colour of course. Not pleasant not unpleasant here is nothing, no colour. You arrive to find some effect from light and shadow that could be little artistic value but that is more my imagination" (shakes head) - "no colour".

Card V. Reaction Time: 5.5 seconds.

1. "That is the fledermaus with the legs a head with two things (horns). The impression to me much more ethereal, gives sensation of lightness. Rationally I realise it is same system. Gives sensation of pleasantness lightness as weight, not colour"

2. "More a butterfly that has been dissected and pinned in the museum!

3. "That can suggest to me something in the human body, two bones without specification of the bone" (D3)

4. "Gives impression of a neurological laboratory cross sections."

5. "Here can be the front of a Beef, the horns" (D2) "Always the sensation of flying, the bat" (see 1)

6. "That can suggest someone who is dancing - too silly to think that, is it not?"
Card VI. Reaction Time: 2 seconds.

"Ah, that is pleasant, that is nice ... sensation there are more symmetrical"

1. $\wedge$ "Gives sensation of some fish, a skate fish very good"

2. $\exists\wedge$ "After impression one after the other is the monotonous darkness. This gives sensation of novelty. This looks light" (rubs fingers texture)

3. $\forall$ "Big nose and beard, French conductor, nose too big" (D4)

4. $\exists\wedge$ "This thing could be insect, a special butterfly, very rare that you find in museums" (D6)

Card VII. Reaction Time: 4 seconds.

1. $\wedge$ "looks like two animals, mice or two children with something very big behind heads. Walt Disney impression. Pleasant, more white parts more separate, gives light in weight point of view" (W)

2. $\forall$ "Grecian tresses" (D5) "Impression these two little figures are joking with one another" (see scoring for 1) "Again gravity".

3. $\exists\forall$ "Completely different like that. That again can be extraction from anatomy" (W)

4. $\forall$ "Can be two little elephants, very fantastic of course"

5. $\wedge$ "Suggests a Spanish dish or souffle, (lightness and fluffy)."

6. $\wedge\forall$ "That can be a human face or a lion" (d22) (shading)

---

Card VIII. Reaction Time: 6 seconds.

"That is nice after an hours time"

1. $\wedge$ "You have two tigers."

2. $\forall$ "The colours remind me of paintings. Colours more?"

3. $\wedge$ "That reminds me of two human breasts" (D6) (form and colour)

4. $\wedge\forall$ "In my country you put ornament on animals heads" (D4) "The colours give unity to drawing. "Tiger has very much movement" (see scoring for 1) "leaping. Colours pleasant more pleasant to look at longer."

5. $\wedge$ "That can be a little rabbit" (d26)

6. $\forall$ "Can be stockfish - this part" (D5)
Card IX. Reaction Time: - 5 seconds.

1. ∧ "Can be Dumbo, something of the dream of Dumbo when he drinks so much" (colours and shape)
2. ∧ "So much association of colours, could be a fire, smoke and like two witches with Klu Klux Klan; much fantasy." (D3)
   "Witches in spirit in Scotland, wonderful country. Magic, fire, smoke, incantation."
3. ∧ "One temple in stone with -" (consults dictionary) "- arch" (D5 22 D5)
4. ∧ "Can be pigeons" (D3 form)
5. > ∧ "That can be a faun." (D2)
6. ∧ "Looks like enormous hands, like oriental dancers' hands, with something on the fingers" (d 21)
   Few quick turns - "Nice to see colours again".

Card X. Reaction Time: - 10 seconds.

"Nice more colours" - smiles.

1. ∧ "Those two gumnus, pink Wagner cave" (D9 + inner white space)
2. < > ∧ "Two animals with legs - bears" (d21)
3. ∧ "Two lions - very small ones" (D2) (form and colour)
4. ∧ "That can be an Indian warrior" (D11)
5. < "That can be two beasts - horns (d22)
6. > "That can be vertebral column with shoulders" (D11)
   "Sensation of dispersion in this test, nice the colours."
7. < V "That can be head of two sea horses" (D4)
8. > "That can be human face little like Sibelius, like he was chiselling in red stone - find in Scotland" (D9)

4. \(\wedge\) Held card away "That looks like a rabbit with something streaming out of its eyes" (D10)

5. \(\vee\) "Blotches of paint" (The whole a general impression)

6. \(\vee\) "Two more seahorses" (D4)

7. \(\wedge\) "These look like congealed blood" (D9)

8. \(\vee\) "General impression is of insects crawling around." (W)
Card X (continued)

9. V> A"And there's a wishbone (D3) there in the middle."

"No I see nothing more there."

10. A V"A pretty coloured pattern. Nothing that I can put into words. Well its fairly disjointed doesn't give an impression of completeness, there's nothing that binds."
Card I. Reaction Time: 10 seconds.

1. "Reminds me of two warriors (D2) you have them in the continent, with their cloaks flying."

2. "They are around a bowl it could be the Holy Grail in the centre on a pedestal (D32 and D4) shall I tell you all I see? They sort of have a winter outfit, heavy boots (lower part of D2) long frocky coats (D2) warm hunting caps (D5) and scarves" (see 1) "They seem to be surrounding some object, reminds me of a bowl on a pedestal."

Card II. Reaction Time: 2 seconds.

1. "This reminds me of two witches facing each other (W) I would call this picture Conspiracy. They are both eager to converse about some evil and what would be most typical is movement of hands to express their point better (illustates). They seem to be sitting very comfortable which gives them more chance to plot and scheme."

Card III. Reaction Time: 1 second.

1. "This looks to me like two monkeys (D6) and my first impression would be to come to the idea of monkey is swing on both sides and those monkeys are full of action, they have just jumped off the swing into the little water pool (f) and they amuse themselves with their play."

Card IV. Reaction Time: 6 seconds.

1. "This could be two grizzly bears (D6) with their backs to each other and their plump feet (D2) sticking forward. They seem to be rubbing shoulders, their heads downwards." (Furry coats)

2. "The centre could be a tree, a burnt off tree (D1). The movement of each figure having the power against the tree" (gesticulates)

Card V. Reaction Time: 2 seconds.

1. "Any way round? This to me is a butterfly" (W) Sighs "Reminds me of my early school days where butterflies were chief object in drawing lessons (smiles). To me this represents (sighs). Happiness. I've been happy drawing butterflies and butterflies over and over again. As I look at this picture I can visualise it in colour already, there seems to be a particularly charming design for a fancy butterfly."

2. "It could also be a bat but then the head would have to be different."
Card VI. Reaction Time: 20 seconds.

Deep breathing, held card away, rubbed head.

1. ▼ "This picture reminds me of an animal skin that is ready to be cured" (W) pause "the thin pieces seem to curl (B) get sense of feel as well" (shading gave me an impression of rusty brown towards yellow brown).

2. ▼ "On the top there seems to be a strange beetle (D?) that could have nothing to do with it but the main bulk reminds me of the fur of an antelope. Usually there are long pieces hanging all over the place. When an animal has been skinned before it has been cut it shows similar lines."

3. ▼ "The other piece could be a wasp (D6) I can visualise this queer object flying fast over the water." (sighs, puts card down) (It is happy)

Card VII. Reaction Time: 4 seconds.

1. Inverts card - "This reminds me of the pelvis of a skeleton" (W)

2. ▼ "When I look at it the other way it reminds me of two old Chinese dancing figures (W) in a characteristic spiritual dance (sighs, smiles) the movement of both figures has just been arrested (tenses body and illustrates) and any minute they could continue happily in their dance."

Card VIII. Reaction Time: 5 seconds.

1. ▼ "This reminds me of two chameleons climbing upwards a tree (I see the movement I find when you have watched chameleons swaying too and fro) the tree has leaves on, their tails are still hooked round (pause, scratches head) for security reasons.

2. "A branch they are leaving and the one hand is grasping the new branch whereas the other hand is ready to go forward and onward in their slow movement" (waves hands).

Card IX. Reaction Time: 15 seconds.

1. ▼ "If I see this picture upside down I see: volcan sym. picture an eruption of a volcano" (W) "Great lot lava (DII) is running down the mountain side. A new flow has just been pushed out (D6) and steam is escaping at the top (D6) The shape of the top part symbolises definite steam whereas the middle part is heavy metal as well as steam, and the lower part gives me the impression of metal resting on some firm foundation" (I can see an explosion not only movement but powerful eruption, heavy metal is in movement of going through the air)."
Card X. Reaction Time:- 5 seconds.

1. $\vee$ Holds card away "If I see this picture upside down I have the impression of some gigantic bridge across two mountain sides" (D6)

2. "In the centre one could imagine a beautiful waterfall trickling down, starting from top in the background to further downwards in the lower part of the picture" (Waterfall is in mist, you see indication of stones blue (D1) are shrubs (Ds30))

3. $\vee$ "On extreme right and left of picture I visualise odd tree trunks (D1) and undergrowth. The white part of the picture represents to me a rather beautiful mist that comes from the action of the water. I find from a picture point I would call this a rather well balanced study" (22 is indication of moss that grows always in waterfalls).

4. $\vee$ "I like the combination of the bridge it has got such strong foundations; its artistic, I wish all bridges could be constructed like two dolphins."

Card VIII. Reaction Time: 10 seconds.

1. "Two rats on side of this" (D1)
2. "Whole thing could look like some artistic design - colour mostly"

Card IX. Reaction Time: 18 seconds.

1. "I see a face in this green part" (D1 - form)
2. "This part might be a lobster or crayfish" (D5 - shape and feelers) "No can't find anything else."

Card X. Reaction Time: 26.5 seconds.

1. "This might represent a school drawing lesson" (form and colour - mostly form)
2. "Can see a very clear rabbits head here" (D5)
3. "This looks like an amoeba" (D2)

The significance of the results was determined by means of the "t" formula.

\[ t = \frac{M_1 - M_2}{\sqrt{\frac{D_1^2 + D_2^2}{n_1 + n_2 - 2} \left(\frac{1}{n_1} + \frac{1}{n_2}\right)}} \]

This was corrected because number of subjects was same in each case to:

\[ t = \frac{M_1 - M_2}{\sqrt{\frac{D_1^2 + D_2^2}{2n - 2} \times \frac{2n}{n^2}}} \]

RESULTS AND CONCLUSIONS.

From the results the following conclusions can be drawn.

From the number of responses it can be seen that the Artists are far more spontaneous than the Doctors. The Non F result shows that the Artists cannot be described as machines and show rich emotional life. The result also bears this out. In fact the group of artists that were tested had far above the average non F scores showing over emotionality. This can show their artistic nature with result of real abilities.

The F+ score showed that the Doctors were far more stereotyped and gave excellent form visualisation with few original responses. The Artists in turn did not give such a high percentage of F+ responses. The form visualisation was weaker and more original responses were given. The high F+ score in Doctors might go to show a rigidity of mind but more likely it came from a desire to make a very good score. It also shows their inability to let themselves go and take a risk. If they were otherwise it might be fatal in their profession. It does not seem likely that the high F+ was due to depression or anxiety. They are as a group more pedantic than artists.

The M score proved that the artists showed far more Empathy that is they projected themselves onto the cards far more readily. All aesthetic appreciation arises from us reading our attitudes into objects also in the FM score the Artists scored more highly than the Doctors. The high FM score of the Artists might prove them to be more childish in their attitude towards life.

Little "m" in the Doctors was very low. In the artists it was at 1% level, this may show a touch of hostility. This seems quite probable as Artists often claim to be a group apart from the herd and do not fit into so called normal society. This is often adopted as a pose and is frequently carefully cultivated.
Little "m" tends to rise from an attitude where nature is felt to dominate human beings — where a person feels himself to be at mercy of outside forces too strong for him. Anxiety behind it and inability to get world into a coherent scheme.

The Artists were as a group dilated personalities whereas the Doctors tended to be more co-acted or constricted.

An unexpected result was the percentage of the last 3 cards which did not warrant the use of the "t" formula, the Doctors having 39.405% and Artists 40.605% showing normal sensitivity in this respect. It may be explained by the general high number of responses given by the Artists for all the cards. Also as some of the Artists took two to three hours to do the cards they may have been somewhat fatigued by the time they reached cards VIII, IX and X.

Pure "C" responses in adults usually results when card comes as a shock. Pure "C" responses by themselves tend to indicate an uncontrolled emotional element. According to Mons "One must suspect a form of sensuality that escapes the control of reason and self criticism". But it must not be overlooked that in Artists it may sometimes be a reflection of personal interest.

In comparison to the Doctors the Artists showed themselves to be much more impulsive and egocentric, their emotions not being socially well adapted. The high CF + C score might also show a certain immaturity in the Artists. The emotional life of the Doctors seems to be inadequate and somewhat constricted in comparison.

Clinical observation has shown that the subjects who give many "y" responses have definite desurgent element in them — this seems to be true of Artists at time they entertain gloomy ideas and on the whole are more liable to become melancholy than the normal person. They are not quite balanced in this respect.

The high "O" score in Artists seems to be linked more with the colour responses and not with the Ys.

Both Artists and Doctors give a high percentage of Popular responses, this shows ability of both groups to see the commonplace.

The little "f" score for fabulising goes beyond the mere perception of the cards. Very little was found in the Doctors responses but a high number in the Artists; this shows tendency to embody wishes and fears and to project them onto the cards. It also shows a richer imaginative fantasy life and tendency to "be in the world but not of it" in other words to have a fantasy world of their own which might be tentatively interpreted as a means of refuge from the harsh conditions of everyday life.

Artists also showed signs of feeling of inferiority in their XS responses. This was not present in the Doctors.

Many more emotional responses were given by the Artists e.g. "angry looking", "sense of horror", "evil looking", "leering" etc.

Very few sex responses were given by the Doctors but the Artists gave a fairly high number.

The Doctors did not do much turning of the cards and when they did it was slowly and deliberately.

The Artists turned the cards frequently but with a lot of random unnecessary movements.

Lastly the Reaction times between the two groups varied greatly. The Doctors took a long time before giving the responses. The Artists responded almost immediately and wasted little time between each response.
From the results it may safely be concluded that both groups differ widely in their personality structure and that a statement to the effect that Doctors are artistic seems to be quite fallacious, in the light of these results.
